

At times a we all get sad and blue,
At times we may just want to cry,
At times it seems we have problems so big
They could stack up to the sky.

The world can be a hectic place
That deals us blows in our lives,
From time to time we encounter some struggles
That leave us feeling torn up inside

But when it seems as though life is piled
On your chest like a bunch of boulders,
Know that you're never in this alone,
You'll always have my shoulder.

I may not know all the secrets to life,
But this one thing I know:
No matter what your troubles be,
There's a cure for every woe.

So whenever life has got you down,
Pinned under stormy weather,
Always know that I'm here by your side,
So let's tackle this problem together.

